PREVENTING CONTAGION

All Leper Mail Is To Be Inspected.

PRECAUTIONS PLANNED

Postoffice Agent Goes to Molokai Tonight to Initiate Arrangements.

When the Board of Health and invited guests leave for the Leper Settlement on Molokai to-night, M. H. Flint, special postoffice agent, will be one of the party. He goes to investigate the mail facilities at Kalaupapa and to make a report of the conditions there to his department at Washington. At present about 400 letters per week are received from the Leper Settlement at the Honolulu office. Probably six hundred letters are forwarded each week from the settlement to various parts of the group.

The rules of health which obtain in the postoffice department of the United States will have to be extended to the settlement, and radical changes will result if these rules are strictly enforced. It has been stated on the authority of a bacteriologist who has made a study of the contagious quality of leprosy that ordinary fumigation such as is employed in destroying plague germs, is not effective when used against the microbes of leprosy.

One authority has stated that when a leper seals a letter, countless microbes are in the sputum and therefore adhere to the paper. The United States mail regulations do not allow such a condition to exist if there is any method by which it can be eradicated.

There is a possibility that if there is no other way out of the difficulty, the United States will have to employ a postmaster at a certain salary whose duties combined will be those of forwarding and receiving the mail, and of writing the letters of the leper patients, or in other words to become the amanuensis of the entire settlement. Assistants would necessarily have to be employed if the work became too heavy, and these would have to be non-leprosy.

The mail must be handled entirely by non-leprosy officials, the letters written for the lepers by others not tainted by the disease, and the stamps be placed on the letters by the postmaster or his assistants. Under the Hawaiian law the lepers' mail went unstamped but no such arrangement is probable under the United States regulations.

The conditions existing at the settlement are probably the most peculiar which the Postal department has to encounter within the boundaries of the United States, and special arrangements will probably be made for the handling of the mails there.

LYCURGUS WON'T TAKE OUT LICENSE

Says He Sells No Liquor—Collector Haywood and Sheriff.

The statement that George Lycurgus is selling liquor at the Union Grill, on King street, is denied strongly by the proprietor. He says that his customers are provided with intoxicants with their meals, but that these are ordered from Cunha's place, and paid for by the customer and not by Lycurgus. The customer sends out a waiter for whatever liquor or wines he desires, giving the money to the waiter, or it is sent for by Lycurgus and the money paid by him over the bar, the same as it would if the customer himself went to Cunha's place. Then Lycurgus puts it in the bill.

High Sheriff Brown said yesterday that the question has been raised as to why he does not raid Lycurgus' restaurant and thus compel the proprietor to pay a police fine. The High Sheriff says it is the Internal Revenue Collector's province to say that Lycurgus does sell liquor. This, he says, will become a fact if Internal Revenue Collector Haywood decides that George Lycurgus must pay a tax to the Federal Government, which amounts to $25 and holds good for twelve months. Should this be done, then, and then only, would it be time for him to act.

He says that as far as his knowledge goes, he has no evidence that George Lycurgus sells liquors, but does know that liquors are bought over Cunha's bar and then placed before the customer. "When it's up to me," said the High Sheriff, "I will know what to do. It is first in the hands of Mr. Haywood. If he sees fit to impose a tax, all well and good."

George Lycurgus said he had not stated that he would pay the internal revenue tax, as he had been made to say in an evening paper. He says he does not sell liquor. If he paid such a tax it would be a practical admission that he was doing such a business, he says.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

"My boy, Jimmy, aged nine, is a corks in psychology, and it's only his second term at it, too."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. The other day he said he was certain that the higher moral influence had nothing to do with my being a good citizen."

"Then how did he account for it?"

"He said I was afraid of the police!"

And any blend that the most fastidious taste may demand. To some unfortunates any hot discolored decoction of withered leaves is "Tea." Tendering our profound compassion to this class of persons, we appeal to those who love a good cup of real tea.

Few good judges of tea are entirely satisfied with the qualities possessed by any one brand of tea, and seek to supply deficiencies by a mixture of different teas, technically called "blending."

With our experience of teas we can do this better than an amateur consumer, our large knowledge of teas guiding us with comparative certainty when the mere amateur blunders. If you are still looking for a tea that suits you, let us help you. We carry the most complete line of choice teas in the country.
